Life is like stepping on a turtle.

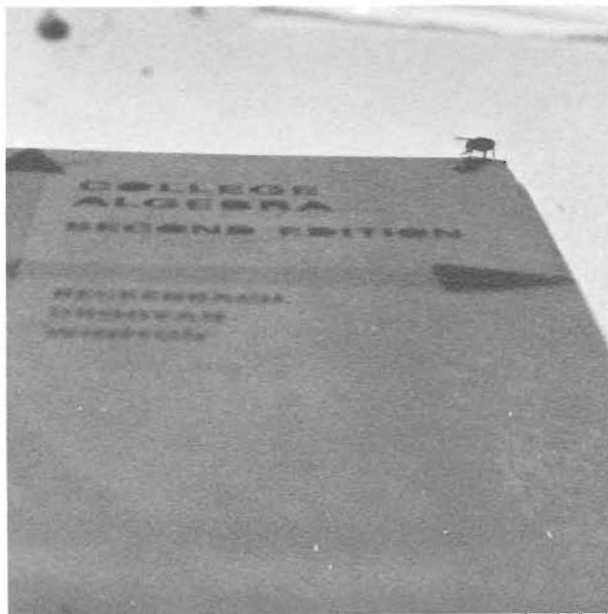

The students of L tri C are gradually building up a reputation. While the world worries about pollution and ecology, take a walk through the cafeteria some afternoon. One can literally wallow through the garbage thrown on the floors.

The efforts of the "shit squad" to alleviate the problem were effective to some extent, but the personal initiative of a handful of people cannot replace the apathy of the majority of the students. Only a concerned student body can solve the problem.

"A few weeks before harvesting time, the air becomes filled with the excitement of all the villagers. On the day that the plants bloom, the banks and schools are closed, and music echoes back from the hillside as the gaily dressed villagers begin cutting the plants down an inch above the soil."

I'd rather be a lightning rod than a seismograph.

Death is nature's way of telling us to slow down.

This year's Vet's Club can take pride in being one of the most socially active frats ever. The donation of a U.S. flag, the football games, the skating parties, and of course the Schmid's (just to name a few) have made the Vet's an integral part of L tri C. And who can forget the Cookie Witch? (Certainly not Dean G!)

The Cultural Committee is the hard working group who has the honor of bringing interesting and talented people to entertain an apathetic student body. Overlooking the past poor attendance, they strive to instill interest by presenting people such as Marshall Dodge, Joanna Featherstone, and many other entertainers free of charge. Unfortunately, however, apathy reigns.

Tradition dictates that something be said by the editor concerning the book. Let me start by quoting an age-old cliché: "You can't please everyone." Well, I didn't try.

There will be those, I'm sure, who will find fault with this book for some reason or another. Some will say that certain people have their picture in too often. The people whose picture is in more than once are there simply because they deserve it. They are the ones who got off their asses and worked, and I feel they deserve recognition! In light of that I would like to thank the following people:

MaryAnn, for a hard earned thirty-two pages.

Bill and David, my associates in the photography of this book.

Syd, for help on layout and her sincere interest.

Jack Cobb and Larry Leiby for their faith and encouragement.

Mike Gilroy, for all the technical knowledge and creative ideas.

To Janice, for everything.

And last, but certainly not least, Krista Parmi, my assistant editor for all the time, energy and devotion which she put into these pages.

Peace.

The keys of Wisdom are not new;
they are as old as time.
Passed on from decade to decade,
from generation to generation,
from century to century.
They shall last as long as time exists.

The keys of wisdom are the past,
the present, and the future.
They are yours, they are mine.
Let us use them wisely to bring forth generations of peace.
